

Marigold Aurora Fire

Among the fanciest of the broad-petalled French Marigolds, Aurora Fire is a sizzling blend of hot crimson and brilliant orange, all on big, fully double blooms that completely cover neat plants all season long! Early and compact, they bloom heavily and steadily. The flowers stretch 2 1/2 to 3 inches across, crowning these neat 10- to 12-inch mounds in fiery color until well into fall.

Grow in full sun. Very free-blooming, these plants don't mind heat and bad weather. They keep their neat shape all season, making them a great choice for formal plantings, the front of the border, and containers. Superb for edging, they are even effective in vegetable gardens, where they repel nematodes naturally. And where Marigolds go, butterflies follow!
