

Petunia Avalanche Salmon

So well-branched you could use it as a ground cover!

The Most Floriferous Spreading Petunia Yet -- and it's Salmon!
Get swept away by early-blooming, bushy-centered Avalanche!

Avalanche buries the competition with floriferous, early-blooming plants that always look fresh, thanks to an innovative growth pattern that sets blooms from the center instead of the end of the stems. (No more "flat-topped" baskets!) As if this weren't enough, its flowers are Salmon!

Particularly effective in wet weather, Avalanche shakes off the elements and keeps on spreading and blooming!

Eventually reaching 6 to 8 inches high and 3 to 5 feet wide, it just keeps turning out 2- to 2 1/2-inch blooms, for fresh blooms over a very long season. Tough enough to use as a ground cover yet lovely enough to grace your patio baskets and entryway, Avalanche will sweep you away! Petunias are unrivalled for long-lasting color in the border, patio containers, windowboxes, and hanging baskets. They bring in the butterflies with their clear, glowing blooms, and are quite low-maintenance. Plant in Full Sun
