

Petunia Tidal Wave™ Silver

The blooms range from 2 1/2 to 4 inches across, and some are deeply blushed with purple while others are nearly pure white. These blooms aren't shrinking violets, either -- they stand up to summer storms beautifully, bouncing back from rain and wind without turning a petal! Expect a long summer season of bloom in the sunny yard or patio. The plant itself is as much of a star as its flowers, offering an adaptable habit completely unlike other Petunias'. Spaced closely together, the plants form an upright mound or even a low hedge 10 to 22 inches tall, drenched with silvery blooms and utterly charming. Set against a trellis and given a little help to get started, it forms a floriferous climber. Widely spaced in bed or border, it creeps along as a lovely ground cover. And then there's its "traditional" use as a trailing Petunia in baskets, planters, and other containers! Tidal Wave Silver is a 2002 All America Selection winner, Plant in full sun, feed and water it well all season, and you will be rewarded with masses upon masses of moonlight-bright blooms!
